RED CROSS GIRLS SPEED TROOPS ON RETURN JOURNEY

Loading a homeward bound troopship at Southampton, England. A seemingly unending line of smiling boys in uniform emerge from the semi-darkness of the pier sheds and file across the dock and up the gangplank. They march two abreast, and on either side of them as they tramp across the dock, is a line of American girls in Red Cross Canteen uniform with a last "gift of the American people," and a smile and a word of farewell.

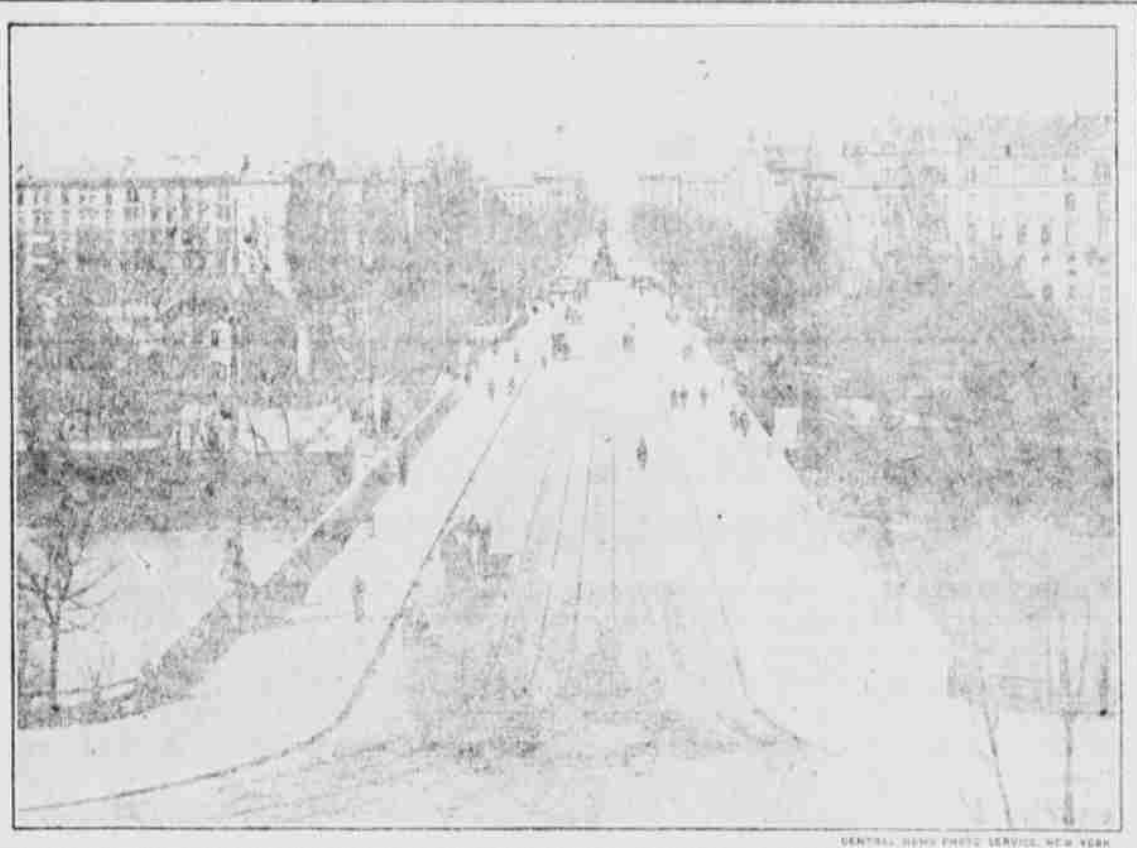

STATUE OF DANTE, A PRESENT TO PRESIDENT WILSON
This statue of bronze and marble, 5 ft. high, bears the inscription: "TO WOODROW WILSON, ASSERTER OF THE LIBERTY OF PEOPLES"

It is a replica of the great monument at Trent, erected 20 years ago to flout in the face of Austria, that the Italians of Trentino were still at heart Italians. During the war a commission was appointed by the "Unredeemed Italians" to present their claims to freedom from Austria to President Wilson. It was decided to present to him at the same time a replica of the Dante monument, in recognition of the work he had done for the peoples of the world. The monument was shipped and the commission was about to start for the United States when the armistice was signed. The monument awaits the pleasure of President Wilson.

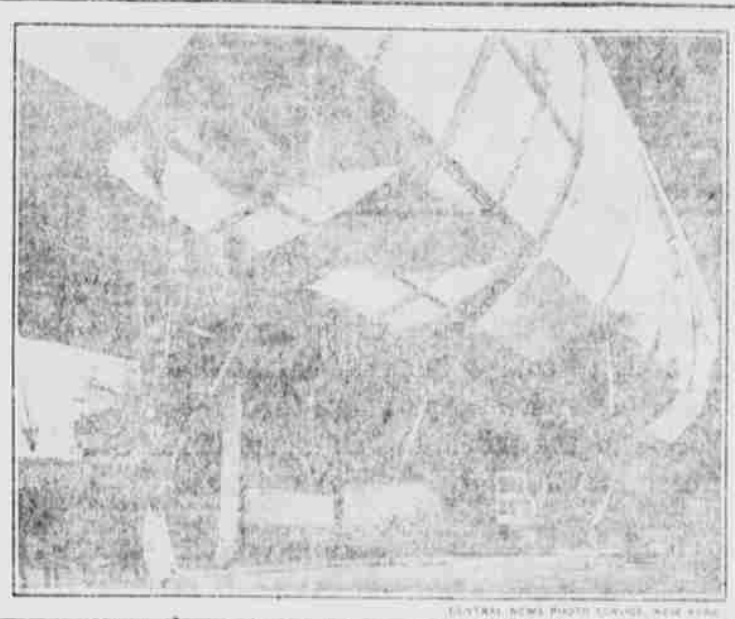

GERMAN METHOD OF FELLING TREES
How the Germans felled the trees in the Argonne Meuse Drive to impede the progress of the Americans. A little cutting and then charges of dynamite and the great monarchs of the forest crashed to the ground.

CAPITAL CITY OF BAVARIA

Maxilian Street, Munich. This city has seen much rioting and disorder since the assassination of Premier Kurt Eisner, the radical Socialist, who seized the reins of government after the deposition of the royal family early in November.

BRITISH SUPER-ZEPPELIN

This photograph, publication of which is now permitted, shows the construction of one of the monster British airships, equal in size and capacity to the biggest Zeppelin and a similar rigid type. The picture gives an excellent idea of the construction and shows the separate gasbags (or ballonettes) which are, however, covered over when in flight.

FIRST COMMERCIAL AERIAL SERVICE

The world's first aerial merchandise service started at Folkestone, England, recently. A squadron of De Havilland machines comprise the carriers of the line and they operate between Folkestone and Ghent. It is intended that these first aerial carriers shall bring to the distressed people of Belgium the materials, such as woollens, foodstuffs, etc., which they are in urgent need of and as quickly as suitable accommodations can be secured the service will be extended to Antwerp and Brussels. The photo shows the fleet of merchant flyers, loaded with freight, ready to start on its first flight.

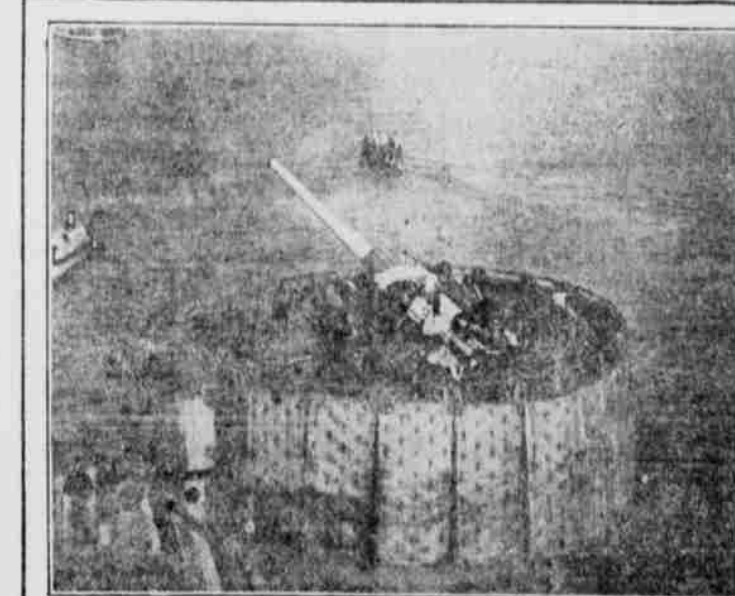

WOODEN SHOE BUSINESS GOOD

In Holland, the wooden shoe business has greatly increased, as the leather shortage makes such shoes greatly in demand. Here is a primitive shop.
